Data Protection Policy

In addition to the above, where necessary, the company may collect and process data beyond what is necessary to fulfill its contractual and/or legal obligations, to protect its legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of third parties related to the company.

Data and/or information are processed accordingly for reasons related to the company's business and/or commercial interests, considering the interests, fundamental rights, freedoms, and reasonable expectations of the company's customers/partners.

Such processing may include:

- Submission of bids
- Connection to the Central Signal Reception Station
- Payments
- Contract performance
- Market and service quality surveys provided that the customer or partner has not objected to the processing of their data for this purpose.
- Implementation of security measures and procedures (closed-circuit video surveillance, access control system, and measures against unauthorized entry into company premises).

Recipients of Personal Data

Within the company, the personal data of customers/partners is processed only by the departments and/or personnel of the company who are authorized to process it and have signed a relevant non-disclosure and confidentiality agreement with the company, provided that it is necessary for the fulfillment of the company's contractual and legal obligations, or when consent has been given by the customer/partner for such processing, or where the company has a legitimate interest.

The personal data of customers/partners may be obtained from service providers and/or suppliers with whom the company has contractual relationships, who undertake to maintain confidentiality and data protection in accordance with the applicable data protection legal framework. Under no circumstances will the company disclose the personal data of its customers/partners to third parties for the purposes of their own marketing and/or advertising.

Data Protection Policy

The company may disclose the personal data of its customers/partners to a public authority if the company is legally required to do so, if required by specific legislation, or if it has the consent of its customers/partners.

Retention Period for Personal Data

For the reasons described above, personal data will be retained by the company in physical and/or electronic files for as long as the contract between the client and partner remains in effect, unless other legislation requires the company to retain such data for specific reasons and if the company deems it appropriate for the establishment, exercise, and defense of legal claims.

The company undertakes to implement technical and organizational measures to ensure the security of its clients' and partners' personal data while it is stored by the company.

Automated decision-making

Automated decision-making occurs when an electronic system processes personal data to decide without human intervention.

The company does not use such a process, and should it ever do so, it will duly inform its customers and partners.

The rights granted by law/regulation to the company's customers and partners

To have access to personal data. This allows them to receive a copy of the personal data held. To request and receive the relevant copy, the customer/partner may contact the Company.

To request the correction of the personal data held. This allows them to correct any incomplete or inaccurate data.

To request the erasure of personal data concerning them (known as the "right to be forgotten"). This allows you to request the deletion of personal data when you believe you no longer wish the company to retain it, unless the company is otherwise legally entitled to retain it.

To object to the retention of personal data (known as the "right to object") when there is a specific circumstance regarding the customer's or partner's situation that leads them to wish to object to the retention of such data for that reason. If the client/partner objects, the company will not retain the personal data held for that specific client/ partner, unless the company is able to demonstrate that the processing is carried out by legitimate means that override your interests, rights, and freedoms.

Data Protection Policy

You also have the right to object in cases where the processing is carried out for the purpose of promoting the company's services.

To request the restriction of the processing of personal data. This allows you to request that the processing of personal data be restricted, meaning that the company may use it only in certain cases, if:

- i. it is inaccurate, until its accuracy is verified,
- ii. they have been processed unlawfully, but you do not wish to have them erased,
- iii. they are no longer needed, but you wish to retain them for potential legal claims,
- iv. the company has already been asked to stop retaining personal data, but is waiting for confirmation as to whether there are legitimate reasons for the company to retain it.

To request a copy of the personal data concerning them in a structured, commonly used, and machine-readable format, so that they may transmit this data to other organizations and/or companies or for their own use. You also have the right to request that your personal data be transferred directly from the company to other organizations and/or companies that you specify (known as the right to data portability).

To withdraw the consent given regarding the processing of their personal data at any time. Please note that any withdrawal of consent does not affect the lawfulness of processing based on consent prior to its withdrawal or revocation by the customer/partner.

In order to exercise any of these rights or if there are any other questions regarding the use of the personal data of the company's customers/partners, the customer/ partner may contact the company by phone or at the email info@krypto.com.cy

Right to file a complaint with the supervisory authority.

If any or all of the rights regarding the protection of personal data have been exercised and the company's customer/partner still has concerns regarding how their personal data is being handled or if these concerns have not been satisfactorily addressed by the company, they have the right to file a complaint with the company's Data Protection Officer, by calling the company's phone number or sending an email to stioakim@hsbrconsulting.com
